Interests

Apart from my academic pursuits, I actively participate in the Drumline society and collaborate with my roommates in a band, showcasing my skills in guitar and music production. These activities have enhanced my time management, teamwork, and organizational skills.

I am currently seeking opportunities to apply my academic knowledge and diverse skill set in a professional setting, with a keen interest in software development and programming. Open to new challenges, I am enthusiastic about contributing to innovative projects and continuously expanding my expertise in the ever-evolving field of computer science.
